

HARDING URGES PASSAGE OF SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

SCHROEDER IS FOUND GUILTY; M'CLANATHON CASE IS DISMISSED

Jury Convicts Oscar Schroeder of Eagle Hotel of Charge of Possession of Liquor

STATE FAILS TO PROVE CASE IN RAID ON HOME

Court Dismisses Charges Against John McClanathon

Charges of violation of the prohibition laws, brought by the state against John McClanathon were dismissed Monday afternoon by Judge Higgins in circuit court. McClanathon was charged with possession of distilled liquor without a permit. The state also sought to prove that McClanathon was guilty of manufacturing an intoxicating beverage.

After the McClanathon case had been disposed of, the court took up the case of Oscar Schroeder of the Eagle hotel, charged with possession of intoxicating liquor and previous conviction for the same offense. The case went to the jury at 5 p. m. and at 6:30 p. m. the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Schroeder will be sentenced Saturday morning.

Got Alcohol from Son

McClanathon's defense was that the small quantity of alcohol found in his home, 511 1-2 Division street, was all that was left of a gallon of alcohol given to his wife by their son before the Volstead prohibition act went into effect. Most of the alcohol, McClanathon said, was used by his wife for rubbing purposes. Some colored alcohol found in a bottle was discovered in a room which the McClanathons rented after a roomer had left the place.

The state also charged that they found several barrels at the home which bore traces of mash on the sides. McClanathon asserted that he bought these barrels in St. Paul and used them to ship his household goods to this city. The state also charged that they found a copper kettle, such as is used as a still, in the home. McClanathon declared this was used for cooking purposes by a woman who did housework for him while his wife was ill.

The court in dismissing the charges on the grounds that the state did not prove its case, held that the alcohol was in a private home and that it was not proved that the liquor had been privately distilled and that there was no evidence that it was illegally obtained, therefore the presumption was that it was legal liquor.

Federal Men Make Raids

Albert C. Wolfe defended both McClanathon and Schroeder while District Attorney Reid prosecuted the cases. The arrests of both McClanathon and Schroeder were brought about by federal prohibition men who conducted both raids.

The trial of Schroeder was the second one for the same offense, the jury disagreeing at the first trial last May. The state charged that three glasses, each containing a quantity of intoxicating liquor, were found on a work board under the bar in the Eagle hotel. Oscar Schroeder was behind the bar at the time of the raid. Wolfe charged Schroeder's defense was that he had nothing to do with the liquor, that his mother owned and managed the hotel and that he was employed there. The license for the Eagle hotel was issued by the common council in the name of the Henry Schroeder estate.

German Premier To Announce New Cabinet Tuesday

BERLIN.—By the Associated Press. Chancellor Cuno is expected to make known Tuesday the names of the men he has selected for his "business cabinet."

At least four members of the Cuno ministry, it has been intimated, will serve at their old posts. For the foreign affairs portfolio it is understood that one of Germany's diplomatic representatives has been named, while the posts of justice and economics have been given either to members of the people's party or to nonpartisans.

CLAIMS OF INJURED WORKMEN ARE PAID WITHIN TWO WEEKS

MADISON, Wis.—The industrial commission announces that in 35 per cent of cases arising out of the workmen's compensation act, the first payment is made to the injured workman by insurance companies in less than two weeks after the accident. The law provides that payment shall be made 15 days after the accident.

Self-insured employers, carrying their own risk are not as prompt the commission says. Only 18 per cent of these cases brought payment within the two week period.

Wisconsin is said to rank higher than any other state in the promptness of payment of compensation claims. In Oregon and California, two states with good records, only 13 per cent of the cases brought payment within two weeks.

claimed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed the barn of the Cloverland Sheep and Wool company, at Spread Eagle, near here. About $3,500 worth of feed, 125 chickens and a water system were burned. The total loss was estimated at about $15,000.

Mr. Newberry, manager of the ranch, said he believed the fire to be of incendiary origin, as footprints were visible around the barn.

PREDICT A SHORT AND MILD WINTER IN BADGER STATE

BIRCHWOOD, Wis.—That the approaching winter will be short and mild is indicated by the number of birds that are still in this region. Robins have been seen here, dandelions are in bloom, strawberry blossoms have been seen, and new leaf buds are again forming upon the trees. Muskrats are not preparing homes for the winter, which would indicate that the winter will be mild.

Germany will now have a government of business men as Wilhelm Cuno, director-general of the Hamburg-American line, is organizing the new German government. The new prime minister is inviting into his cabinet men high in the German industrial world.

CLAIMS HE WAS BLACK-JACKED AND ROBBED OF MONEY

Louis Schroeder, whose dealings with the police department here covers a great span of years, came to Central station early Tuesday morning with the report that he had been black-jacked and robbed of $120 in bills. He was held over in a cell at the station until Tuesday morning.

Claims Job Was Done at Two Different Places

In two statements to the police, Schroeder's stories of how and where the act was committed vary, police said Tuesday. When questioned by Officer Rick shortly after 12 o'clock Tuesday morning, Schroeder indicated that he was struck over the head in front of the Virgo restaurant at Second and Pearl streets. His statement to Chief Webber today was that he was knocked down and robbed of the money by a man who stepped out of Louis Olson's place at Third and Pearl street. In the words contained in Officer Rick's report, Schroeder had "three-fourths of a jag on" when he made his report of the affair.

Schroeder's story to the police was that he walked down Pearl street to the Virgo restaurant, turned around and came back to Third street. He turned in front of Louis Olson's place and some one stepped out and knocked him down. When he recovered, he said, he found his money missing. To Officer Rick, he reported similar details as occurring in front of the Virgo.

LA CROSSE MADE PRODUCTS WILL BE SEEN IN MILWAUKEE

Local Manufacturers Plan Big Exhibit at Exposition in December

La Crosse manufacturers will have a big exhibit at the Wisconsin products exhibition in Milwaukee December 14 to 20.

Plans for a roundup of La Crosse-made products to show in a big booth engaged for the exposition next month were outlined at a meeting of a committee of which W. F. Hurlbert is chairman in the Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon. It was definitely decided at this meeting to engage a booth, and within a week a committee will call on all manufacturers and seek their co-operation in the plan to show local products at the Milwaukee exposition.

There are manufactured in La Crosse 181 articles, according to information obtained at the Chamber of Commerce offices. It is hoped that a large majority of these articles will be shown in the La Crosse booth at the exposition.

COUNTIES ACTING ON PROPOSED NEW AUTOMOBILE TAX

MADISON, Wis.—A number of county boards in Northern Wisconsin have already endorsed the program of highway legislation recommended by the legislative committee of the county boards' association. Frank Cannon, secretary of the Good Roads Association of Wisconsin, reports. This program includes suggested changes in the state laws to provide for a gasoline tax, and a highway privilege tax and a graded license fee based on weight of automobiles for both pleasure cars and trucks.

County boards now in session in the 71 counties of the state are all being asked to express their attitude on the legislative program formulated by their committee. The expressions from them are expected to have a decided influence on the legislature when it takes up consideration of the highway problems.

TENTATIVE HIGHWAY BUDGET IS $279,081, SUPERVISORS TOLD

State Road and Bridge Committee Reports on Probable Expenditures to be Made

SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION IS OFFERED ON RIVER PLANS

Blind Aid and Mothers' Pension Appropriations Made

The tentative budget of the state road and bridge committee, totaling $279,081.53, was presented to the county board Tuesday morning. The board also discussed the Black river project for a short time before the noon recess and it was resumed at the afternoon session. The big question before the board Tuesday afternoon, however, was the road problem as it affects the county and the state. This subject was made a special order for the afternoon when the recommendations of the legislative committee of the Wisconsin Boards' association will be read and discussed.

How Money Will be Spent

Some of the appropriations asked for in the highway budget include $39,461.46 to meet town appropriations; $25,000 for road oil and oiling; $15,000 for machinery; $7,000 for the east French Island road; $30,000 to operate the Holland quarry and complete the road construction on No. 11 between Midway and Onalaska; $25,000 to complete 2 1/2 miles of surfacing on Trunk line No. 108; $35,000 to surface Highway No. 21, from the city of La Crosse to where the surfacing done this year ends; $25,000 to surface No. 21 to the point where it connects with Highway No. 28; $20,000 for shelling and relocating Highway No. 108 to the Jackson county line, the state to furnish about $13,000 of this amount; $15,000 for heavy grading work.

Supervisor Gnanther offered a resolution asking for an appropriation of $1,500 for blind relief for the year. It was adopted. Supervisor Lapitz asked for an appropriation of $16,000 for mothers' pensions for the coming year. It also was passed.

Black River Project

Supervisor Pettigill offered a resolution from the finance and ways and means committee, which would substitute for the appropriation to the committee and offered by Barney Olson and asking for an appropriation of $10,000 to dam Hammond and Dodge creeks and Shingle creek to restore the flow of water to the original bed of Black river. The substitute resolution would appropriate $10,000 for general improvements of the water supply in Black river in the city of La Crosse and the towns of Onalaska and Campbell and also recommended the appointment of a committee of three to investigate the question. The change in the resolution was made. It was stated, because the legality of an appropriation for a specific purpose was questioned, while if the appropriation was not so specific and the special committee found it necessary an enabling act could be requested from the legislature and the work accomplished.

APPEALS FOR SPEEDY ACTION

TEXT OF HARDING ADDRESS

WASHINGTON.—The text of President Harding's address follows: Members of Congress: Last February I reported to you relative to the American merchant marine and recommended legislation which the executive branch of the government deemed essential to promote our merchant marine and with it our national welfare. Other problems were pressing and other questions were pending, and for one reason or another which need not be recited, the suggested legislation has not progressed beyond a favorable recommendation by the house committee. The committee has given the question a full and painstaking inquiry and study, and I hope that its favorable report steadily will be given the force of law.

It will be helpful in clearing the atmosphere if we start with the frank recognition of divided opinion and determined opposition. It is no new experience. Like proposals have divided the congress on various previous occasions. Perhaps a more resolute hostility never was manifested before and I am very sure the need for decisive action—decisive, favorable action—never was so urgent before.

Points to Need for Action

We are not now dealing with a policy founded on theory, we have a problem which is one of grim actuality. We are facing insistent conditions out of which will come either additional and staggering government losses and national impotence on the seas or else the unfurling of the flag on a great American merchant marine commensurate with our commercial importance to service as carrier of our cargoes in peace and meet the necessities of our defense in war.

There is no thought here and now to magnify the relation of merchant marine to our national defense. It is enough to recall that we entered the world war almost wholly dependent on our allies for transportation by sea. We expended approximately three billions, extravagantly, wastefully and impractically. Out of our eagerness to make up for the momentary peace and to meet the war emergency we builded and otherwise acquired the vast merchant fleet which the government owns today.

Nation Already Has Ships

In the simplest way I can say it, our commerce problem is not to build and support a merchant shipping which I hold to be one of the highest and most worthy aspirations of any great people; our problem is to deal with what we now possess. Our problem is to relieve the public treasury of the drain it is already meeting. Let us omit particulars about the frenzied war-time building. Possibly we did full as well as could be done in the anxious circumstances. Let us pass for the moment the vital relationship between a merchant marine and a commercially aspiring nation. Aye, let us suppose for a moment the absurdity that with one $3,000,000 experience and with the incalculable costs in lives and treasure which may be chargeable to our inability promptly to apply our potency—which God forbid happening again—let us momentarily ignore all of these and turn to note the mere business problem, the practical question of dollars and cents with which we are confronted.

The war construction and the later completion of war contracts, where completion was believed to be the greater economy to the public treasury, left us approximately 13,200,000 gross tonnage of ships. The figures are nearer 12,500,000 tons now owing to the scrapping of the wooden fleet. More than half this tonnage is government owned and approximately 2,250,000 tons are under government operation in one form or another.

Monthly Loss 16 Millions

The net loss to the United States treasury—sums actually taken therefrom in this government operation—averaged approximately $16,000,000 per month during the year prior to the assumption of responsibility by the present administration. A constant warfare on this loss of public funds and the draft to service of capable business management and experienced operating directors, have resulted in applied efficiency and enforced economies. It is very gratifying to report the diminution of the losses to $4,000,000 per month, or a total of $50,000,000 a year; but it is still probable that the government should continue a policy from which so enormous a treasury loss is the inevitable outcome. This loss, moreover, attends operation of less than a third of the government owned fleet.

It is not therefore, a question of adding new treasury burdens to maintain our shipping; we are paying these burdens now. It is not a question of contracting an outlay to support our merchant shipping because we are paying already. I am not asking your authorization of a new and added draft on the public treasury; I am appealing for a program to

WILL MEAN BIG SAVING TO U. S. SAYS PRESIDENT

Addresses Joint Session of Congress to Urge Establishment of Stable Merchant Marine for Nation

QUESTION DECLARED IMPORTANT TO ALL SECTIONS OF COUNTRY

Draws Comparison Between Aid for Market Highways on Land and on the Sea

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The administration merchant marine bill with amendments agreed to Monday by republican members was formally reported out by the house merchant marine committee Tuesday without a record vote while President Harding was arranging to go to the capitol and address a joint session of congress in the interest of the legislation.

SHIPS LOSE IN VALUE

The gloomy picture of losses does not end even there. Notwithstanding the known war cost in three billions of dollars for the present tonnage I will not venture to appraise its cash value today. It may as well be confessed now as at some later time that in the mad rush to build, in establishing shipyards wherever men would organize to expend government money when we made shipbuilders over night quite without regard to previous occupations or pursuits, we builted poorly. Moreover, we constructed without any formulated program for a merchant marine. The war emergency impelled and the cry was for ships, any kind of ships. The error is recalled in regret rather than criticism. The point is that our fleet costing approximately three billions, is worth only a fraction of that cost today. Whatever that fraction may be the truth remains that we have no market in which to sell the ships under our present policy and a program of surrender and sacrifice and the liquidation which is inevitable unless the pending legislation is sanctioned will cost scores of millions more.

Immediate Action Necessary

When the question is asked, why the insistence for the merchant marine act now? The answer is apparent. Waiving every inspiration which lies in a constructive plan for maintaining our flag on the commercial highways of the seas, waiving the prudence in safeguarding against another $3,000,000,000 madness if war ever again impels, we have the unavoidable task of wiping out a $50,000,000 annual loss in operation and losses aggregating many hundreds of millions in worn out, sacrificed or scrapped shipping. Then the supreme humiliation, the admission that the United States—our America, once eminent among the maritime nations of the world, is incapable of asserting itself in the peace triumphs on the seas of the world. It would seem to me doubly humiliating when we own the ships and fail in the genius and capacity to turn their prowess toward the marts of the world.

This problem cannot longer be ignored, its attempted solution cannot longer be postponed. The failure of congress to act decisively will be no less disastrous than adverse action.

Three Courses Open

Three courses of action are possible and the choice among them is no longer to be avoided.

The first is constructive—enact the pending bill under which I firmly believe an American merchant marine, privately owned and privately operated, but serving all the people and always available to the government in any emergency may be established and maintained.

The second is obstructive—continue government operation and attending government losses and discourage private enterprise by government competition under which losses are met by the public treasury.

The third is destructive—involving the sacrifice of our ships abroad or the scrapping of them at home, the surrender of our aspirations and the confession of our impotence to the world in general and our humiliation before the competing world in particular.

Choice Must be Made

A choice among the three is inevitable. It is unbelievable that the American people or the congress which expresses their power will con-

Important to Whole Nation

"It is a common cause with its benefits commonly shared," said he. If government aid is a fair term to apply to authorizations aggregating $75,000,000 to promote good roads for market highways, the president added, it is equally fit to be applied to the establishment and maintenance of American market highways on the "salted seas."

As to present government operation of the shipping board fleet, Mr. Harding said there was the unavoidable task of wiping out a fifty million dollar annual loss and losses aggregating "many hundreds of millions" in worn out, sacrificed or scrapped shipping. He called attention that the government ships were being worn out without any provision for replacement and that a program of surrender and sacrifice and the liquidation which he declared would be inevitable unless the proposed legislation were enacted would cost scores of millions. The cost of the proposed legislation giving direct aid, he said, with ocean carrying maintained at the present average would not reach $20,000,000 a year, and the maximum direct aid if American shipping were so promoted that it carried one-half the nation's deep sea commerce would not exceed thirty millions annually.

MANY OF US DO NOT EAT THE RIGHT KIND OF A MORNING MEAL

Coffee and Roll is no Breakfast, Says Dr. Harrington of the Chest Clinic

"Next to your character there is nothing more important than your health," said Dr. T. L. Harrington of the staff of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, one of the examiners at the clinic, in a talk before the high school assembly this morning. Declaring that it was vital for boys and girls to build up strong, sturdy bodies, able to resist disease, as well as to develop their minds during the school years, Dr. Harrington said that even the highest scholastic honors won at the sacrifice of health were not worth while.

"The average American school boy and girl do not have the right kind of a breakfast in the morning," said the doctor. "A cup of coffee and a sweet roll are the rule in many a home, and this is not the right way to start the day. A proper breakfast includes some kind of fruit and cereal (and oatmeal cooked three hours in a double-boiler is the best cereal we have), toast and when possible a few slices of bacon or an egg."

"If the American people drank twice as much milk, ate twice as much fruit, and twice as many vegetables, and cut the amount of meat and sweets eaten in two, we would be a healthier nation," Dr. Harrington stated. "Milk is the very best food we have for adults as well as for children, and everyone should have at least a pint a day."

"Trying that every student who has not been vaccinated have this done at once," Dr. Harrington said that, although smallpox was entirely preventable by vaccination, there were 5,216 cases in Wisconsin in 1921 with seventeen deaths. Findings at the free chest clinics show that only one in every three of those examined have been vaccinated, the doctor stated. Other preventable diseases, which are yearly taking their toll of deaths in Wisconsin are: Typhoid fever, of which there were last year 512 cases with seventy-seven deaths; and diphtheria with 5,176 cases and 385 deaths in 1921. At least one in every three of the patients examined at the free chest clinic are found to have simple goitre, the doctor stated. Extensive experiments in other states show that this disfiguring enlargement of the thyroid gland is preventable, the speaker said, if proper treatment is given during adolescence.

Although remarkable results have been obtained in Wisconsin in cutting down the death rate from tuberculosis, another preventable and curable disease, there was in 1921 nearly 2,000 deaths in the state from the white plague, Dr. Harrington stated. He said that this disease thrives on poor soil, and persons in rundown condition make easy victims. The doctor urged all to build up their power of resistance and said that the worst enemies of tuberculosis were fresh air and sunshine, nourishing food and rest. He emphasized the importance of open windows in the sleeping rooms at night.

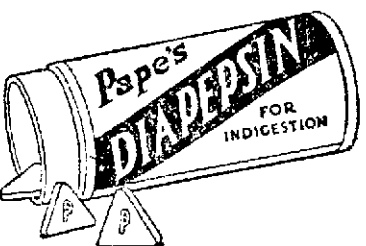

In conclusion Dr. Harrington complimented the school pupils of the state in their active part in the Christmas seal campaign, and urged them to continue until the fight against tuberculosis was finally won.

GOVERNOR TO BE BACK AT DESK THURSDAY TO TAKE UP TASK OF FRAMING LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—When Governor Blaine returns to his office Thursday after his ten-day tour of the central states on a sales campaign for Wisconsin products, he will be confronted with the immediate task of formulating a legislative program and preparing his message to the 1922 session of the legislature.

This message will be an all-important document in view of the complete control held over both houses of the law-making body by the La Follette-Blaine faction of the republican party. The governor's recommendations are expected to go a long way in determining the temper of the legislators as they proceed to enact laws to meet their promises to constituents.

It is notable that the platform, on which the governor and other candidates for state office were elected, contained few planks referring to state issues. This fact leaves the field wide open for the governor when he lays down specific proposals with recommendations that they be enacted by the legislature.

What he has to say on taxation, highway legislation, rural credits, legislative interrogation of members of state commissions, consolidations of boards and commissions, and motorbus regulation, is going to be looked on with special interest when the session convenes January 10. Politicians here consider significant the fact that Senator La Follette, before leaving for Washington, called Assemblyman John L. Dahl, administration leader in the lower house, to Madison for a conference on a proposed program of legislation. This conference took place during Governor Blaine's absence from the state and involved matters on which the governor has made no expression of his position.

Keeps Tax Plans Dark
There is speculation here over the governor's attitude on many of the important tax and highway questions, before the coming legislature as the outstanding subjects for consideration and action by the session. Outside of a pledge of economy and one specific recommendation for repeal of the secrecy clause to the income tax law, practically no intimation has come from the executive office concerning possible recommendations to be contained in the coming message.

In his message to the 1921 session of the legislature, Governor Blaine made specific recommendations on tax matters, that if repeated before a friendly legislature and enacted into law, will make drastic changes in the taxing statutes.

He said at that time speaking of the income tax laws:

Surtax on Higher Incomes
"In order to relieve the general property from a part of the burden of taxation, and require an equitable share of that burden to be paid by those who are best able to pay, I recommend that there be established a state fund from taxes derived from incomes, and that there be an additional progressive graduated tax upon the higher incomes, beginning at a suggested income of $5,000, and increasing the rate progressively upon incomes exceeding that with respect to all classes of income taxpayers, whether individuals or corporations."

"The amount to be levied, in order to relieve the general property, should be sufficient to pay a part of the present mill tax of the university, normal schools, common schools and road taxes. Unless there is an established state policy, as I have recommended, there will constantly be the temptation to meet large appropriations by a surtax on incomes, and I therefore feel that there should be established a state fund that will not invite extravagance, and yet adjust upon an equitable basis the burdens of taxation."

Increase Exemptions
In addition to recommending a surtax on incomes the governor proposed repeal of the personal property offset to the income tax law, abolition of the secrecy clause, increase in exemptions from provisions of the income tax and the creation of a capital account fund for educational institutions, from inheritance taxes.

Whether governor Blaine will again make these recommendations is not known. Definite expression is expected on tax matters and on highway problems when the governor goes before the opening session to express his views on legislation to the new members.

It is thought possible that the governor may also take occasion to express his stand on the prohibition question which is expected to hob up early in the session. A statement from him on proposed amendment or repeal of the Severe enforcement statute, politicians say would go far to clear up the wet and dry fight that is looked for.

Department heads will be called in by the governor for advice in preparing his messages to the legislature.

RECORD BREAKING AUDIENCE ENJOYS WHITESIDE'S PLAY

Delightful Mystery Play Presented by Well Known Actor and Fine Company

The largest audience seen in the La Crosse theater at a legitimate play for many years packed the house to the doors Monday night, when Walker Whiteside and his splendid company presented the long heralded mystery play, "The Hindu."

Featured by superb acting, beautiful stage settings and intricate stage mechanisms which enhanced the finished tone of the production, "The Hindu," as presented here Monday night, met every expectation of the big audience. With every seat sold, patrons of the house overflowed into the orchestra pit, which was filled with folding chairs to the footlights, stood around the outer walls and sat on the stairs—anywhere to see the show. People stood in a long line outside the box-office just before the show opening begging for seats, but there was none to be had. Fortunately indeed were the late comers who got into the house, for "The Hindu" was one of the season's real dramatic treats.

Every known device of stage artistry was employed to give the Indian setting the right atmosphere, even to faint clouds of incense which poured out over the house and helped to carry the audience right into the heart of the lavish scene and mystic surroundings in which the action of the play took place.

Walker Whiteside, in the role of Prince Tamar, host of the palace in which the story was staged, was altogether delightful and always master of a situation in which international intrigue, love, religious uprising and the wild, uncanny artifices of the native Hindu played prominent parts. The play was exciting—even thrilling at times and commanded the close attention of the audience throughout the prologue and three acts.

Mr. Whiteside received splendid support from Miss Sydney Shields, who played the part of Charlie Cartwright, a Scotland Yard operative, and equally prominent was Harold Vosburgh in the role of Denton Morgan, an English conspirator. Other members of the cast portrayed their parts in artistic style, combining with the stars to produce a finished, clever play.

EVERY mother interested in her children's welfare meets a problem in the proper feeding of her boys and girls.

Parents often do not realize the evil effects of mal-nutrition; and that care in the selection of food will avoid a large percentage of children's ills.

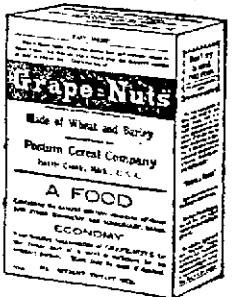

One of the best of all foods for providing proper nourishment for growing boys and girls is Grape-Nuts—made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, and scientifically baked for twenty hours. This long baking brings out a delicious flavor, makes the food easy to digest—without fermentation. Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food.

Here is a suggestion for better health: Serve Grape-Nuts as often as the folks wish it.

The Latest Oil Incident

EVERY time the matter of oil arises between the United States and Mexico there is a ruction. It has twice carried us to the verge of war, and the latest incident of Mexican resentment at reported officious efforts of this government to dictate laws for administration of Mexican oil deposits has resulted in an official attempt by the sister government to get us in the black books of all the Latin-Americans. Granting that in the past the United States or at least citizens of this country have not had clean skirts when Mexican oil was in question, one must still feel from dispatches covering the incident that the Obregon government has been indulging in some sharp practice and that we are this time at least undeservedly accused. For the state department's announcement that the American charge commented on Mexico's oil legislation only at the invitation of the Mexican government seems reasonable and in accordance with international usage.

Had Mr. Summerlin attempted to tamper with the Mexican congress, had he in any way endeavored to go over the head of the government to press the position of Washington, matters would be different. Mexico would as justly resent such conduct as, for instance, George Washington resented the effort of Genet, French ambassador, to force war with England upon us during the French revolution by direct appeals to the public and to congress, or as the last administration resented von Bernstorff's endeavor to exert political pressure in keeping us out of the late war. But when Mr. Summerlin, at the request of the Mexican foreign minister, expressed views of his government through diplomatic channels to the government of Mexico, he was violating no code of law or custom. The breach of faith, if any, is upon the Obregon government, for using such material in its domestic political maneuvers, and the burden is not decreased by the Mexican admission that American comment was specifically invited.

The disclosures of the correspondence between Summerlin and the Mexican ministry of foreign affairs turned opposition to Obregon's plans from his government to alleged "Yankee insolence." The Mexican congress in its anger at alleged American dictation gave Obregon a vote of confidence that apparently he would not have received otherwise. But the evidence is that Obregon maintained his prestige by a shyster trick. And one may ask if the circular exposing "Yankee insolence" to the rest of the Latin-American countries will not prove a diplomatic boomerang in the end. If Summerlin's action was no more offensive than appears at present Mexico has merely made herself look foolish before the rest of the western hemisphere.

We should like to see the breach between Mexico and this country healed by recognition of the Mexican government. We should like to see the question of Mexican oil disposed of with fairness to Mexico and to foreign investors. But such incidents as that just revealed in Mexico serve rather to widen the split. And it can hardly be expected that legislation based upon such an unfair appeal to racial antipathies will go any great way toward disposing of the oil question.

The Horse is Stolen

SENATOR Truman H. Newberry has resigned from the senate of the United States. What he terms "personal persecution of himself," he believes, is "hampering" the republican party. While not entirely candid, he couples the defeat of Senator Townsend and other progressives with himself in a manner to suggest that he afforded one of the issues upon which they were retired to private life. This issue he drapes in the generality of "unrest."

Mr. Newberry's resignation comes too late. No doubt the act of the senate in seating him after his conviction, even though the conviction was reversed on constitutional grounds by the supreme court, was the major element in the political insurrection which well nigh wiped out the republican majority in congress and gave to the rebel progressives the balance of power. By quitting now he locks the stable after the horse is stolen. Many have gone to defeat because he chose to hold an office his title to which was stained, nor will his retirement at this time relieve those still in congress who, in a party emergency voted to seat him, from the lash of public disapproval when they again face their constituencies.

This is not a matter of specific criminal acts, nor even of definite criminal intent. The country feels that it is dangerous public policy to permit any man to occupy an office in the acquisition of which money was spent far in excess of what would seem to be necessary and reasonable campaign expenditures. Who spent it matters little. If the incumbent furnished the money, he, in effect, purchased an office from those who had no right to sell. If others spent it, it is logical to assume that they had in mind the purchase of some of the privileges and immunities which come to those under high obligation to whom public officials may find themselves. The expenditure of money in politics is too seldom altruistic to meet with general approval or to comport with the public welfare.

Had Senator Newberry resigned immediately upon his acquittal by the supreme court, the act would have enhanced his reputation and saved the republican party from a tremendous injury inflicted upon it by his retention of the post. That the injury will continue to assert itself is strongly suggested by the plan of progressive senators to unseat him notwithstanding his resignation. Evidently they believe his retirement is not in good faith, but rather was instigated by the conviction that he was about to be unhorsed and had better dismount. These senators do not propose that he shall escape if they can help it, and if possible they will write of him a record of disgrace in the annals of the senate.

Newberry is not important. He is a common type of wealthy man seeking to attain distinction in politics by means upon which the American people have put a ban. The important thing is that his experience shall serve as a lesson to politicians and political parties, and that upon such political adventures the country shall place the stamp of disapproval. That his party seated him at a moment when it appeared there was need of his vote upon a tremendously important issue does not alter the principle involved. Our ethical standards have risen above the theory that any means is justifiable provided it serves a good end.

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

"Bully good idea! Bully good idea! Smith Taylor, genial proprietor of the popular Crystal Inn, slapped his thigh resoundingly. 'The one great lack of summer resorts is unattached—and attractive—young fellows. It will be money in my pocket to hire some chap for the season, just to play guest, and who'd be the wiser?' He scratched his fringe of hair and put pencil to paper, with the following prompt result:

"Now, let's see if that doesn't fetch 'em," he exclaimed triumphantly. "Fetch 'em it apparently did, for Taylor received many replies, which he carefully sifted until but one remained, and that the most satisfactory except in one particular. Percy Jones? Nope; that name simply wouldn't do—didn't fit the part he had mapped out for the applicant. 'Well, mix that up, however,' he decided easily, and wrote a long letter of explanation, terms of contract and so forth to the unfortunately christened young man, omitting, however, all mention of his name. 'No use predicting my thought,' Taylor thought, 'he may be partial to what he's been called all his life. Time enough when he gets here.'

"Now, let's see if that doesn't fetch 'em," he exclaimed triumphantly. "Fetch 'em it apparently did, for Taylor received many replies, which he carefully sifted until but one remained, and that the most satisfactory except in one particular. Percy Jones? 'No use predicting my thought,' Taylor thought, 'he may be partial to what he's been called all his life. Time enough when he gets here.'

"The interest did not slacken. That very evening Smith Taylor saw to it that, unobtrusively yet definitely, he met every one of the gay and attractive women who clustered on the broad verandas or strolled the shaded paths that bordered the lake. That is all but one.

"That particular girl, oddly enough, seemed to 'Van Suddam,' the most alluring of them all. Later he was to know her as Ellen Taylor, Smith Taylor's only, cherished daughter. And Taylor was not minded to waste the attentions of an experiment on his own child.

Van Suddam's days became a round of pleasure. Much to his concealed amusement, Taylor tipped him off frequently as to which of the guests displayed the most promise. He met Miss Alexander, now—she's a rich old girl, will stay on here for weeks if she likes it here. Humph! Her little boy, in the matter of tennis, plays like a cow, of course, but— And that Watson girl—her people come every year.

Two things Van Suddam regretted. That he had so little time and energy to devote to his own business, his chief business in life, writing, and that by the very nature of things he saw so little of Ellen. She proved strangely elusive and, for that very reason, all the more provocative. He gathered, furthermore, that the one sure way to bring a frown to Smith Taylor's brow was to let him and them together. On the other hand, Taylor said nothing about the matter and Van Suddam resolved presently to pursue Ellen more persistently.

One week from the day of his arrival, Van Suddam sought out Taylor in the office, seeking him rather than the clerk, as Taylor attended personally in the cashing of checks. "Where's my account?" he asked pleasantly of Taylor, who was ripping open an envelope. "I like to settle up weekly."

"You do, eh?" Taylor paused in the act of drawing out a letter and regarded Van Suddam over his glasses. "Well, let's see. I agreed to pay you twenty dollars a week and board, wasn't that it?"

"Pay me?" said Van Suddam. "What the—"

OUT OUR WAY

At that moment Taylor, who had glanced at his letter, sprang up suddenly. "Who the devil are you?" he shouted.

Van Suddam nearly blinched. "You mean, who am I, really? I'm Curtis Van Suddam, to please you, but, as a matter of fact, I'm Barry Evans, of Evanston, Illinois."

"Then what—listen here," Taylor read the letter aloud, then glared at Van Suddam alias Evans. "Dear Sir—started for your place but came down with measles on route. Impossible to accept your offer."

"Percy Jones?"

Van Suddam shook his head. "Means nothing in my young life," he said. "Came up here to get first-hand experience of summer girls for a new novel promised my publishers in the fall. They consider me weak on designation of flapper type. You see, I've always spent my vacations in the north woods and deduced the sex completely. Didn't penetrate your scheme about change of name, but rather thought you recognized me and novelties were taboo at your establishment. Rather pleased, personally, at incognito."

Taylor was beginning to see light. "Undoubtedly," he cried. "Well, I might have known you were too good to be true. But it there!" and he held out a plump hand.

"Let's go," said Ellen, out on the lake in a canoe, exchanged confidences.

"Did I tell you he'd hired you and it didn't seem fair, somehow, to the guests for you to be getting under false colors. I—I tried not to like you."

"You tried?" asked Barry gleefully. "Oh, Ellen, would you be my summer girl for always?"

"I'll try," said Ellen, but Barry, satisfied at what he read in her lifted glance, beached the canoe at the near-end of the lake and came to her side. (Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

COUNTY BOARD OF VERNON INSPECTS THE NEW CONCRETE ROAD

VIROQUA, Wis. — The Vernon County Board, in annual session, on Wednesday inspected the County Asylum where they were guests at dinner. On Thursday an inspection was made at the County Farm, and an invitation accepted for dinner. On Friday evening the board were guests of the Viroqua Community Club at a banquet served in the Woodman hall by the Women's Auxiliary. The new concrete pavement, south of Viroqua, seven miles in length, which was opened for travel Thursday, was inspected by the board.

On Sunday evening the Seeley Flouring Mill and Electric Light plant at La Farge were destroyed by fire. MEXICO ADMITS IT ASKED VERDICT OF U. S. ON OIL LAW

Pani "Closes Incident" by Expressing Friendship for United States

SOLICITED AMERICAN VIEW ON BILL DECLARES MINISTER

Statement Confirms Position Taken by United States

MEXICO CITY.—By the Associated Press.—Alberto J. Pani, secretary of foreign affairs, has made a statement replying to the declarations of the American state department concerning charges in the Mexican chamber of deputies of interference by the United States in Mexican affairs. He says that the declarations of the United States "have been received warmly in Mexico, as she is animated by the same sentiments of friendship and thus, considers the incidents closed."

"In view of the United States state department declarations," Secretary Pani's statement reads, "the foreign office makes the following declarations:

"It is a fact that the foreign office and Mr. Summerlin (American charge) have had to discuss verbally matters pertaining to resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries and it is necessary to emphasize that this department, which is the only legal one which the government may employ to communicate with the chancelleries of other governments, never framed a petroleum law project of which it did not give knowledge to the American state department or on which it did not solicit the state department's comment."

MOTORIST FINED FOR SPEEDING IN TRIAL OVER LONG DISTANCE

MARINETTE, Wis.—Justice W. F. Haase of Marinette believes in efficiency in finding speed violators. W. T. Comstock of Oconto, was arrested twenty-two miles from here for going at an alleged rate of forty-five miles an hour and was ordered to appear before Justice Haase for a fine Monday. Being unable to appear in court on Monday, Comstock called the justice by long distance telephone telling him of his trouble.

"Do you plead guilty?" queried the justice.

"Yes, I enter a plea of guilty."

"Then I fine you $10 and costs amounting to $14.70."

Monday morning a check covering the amount was received by Mr. Haase and Comstock was a free man.

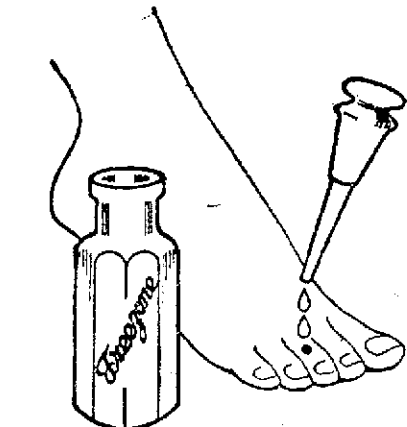

1 Smooth, White Skin That Defies Weather

During the coming months of biting winds and intense cold, you who would keep your skin smooth, white and velvety, should turn your attention to mercurized wax. Nothing else will so effectively prevent or remove a chapped, roughened or discolored surface. By gradually absorbing the weather-beaten cuticle, the complexion is kept in perfect condition, and even the beauty of expression appears more pronounced.

If your skin be coarse, blotchy, pimply, freckled, sallow or over-red, why not shed it? One ounce of ordinary mercurized wax, to be had at any drugstore, will completely transform the most unsightly complexion in less than a fortnight. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

MOTHER AND TWO CHILDREN DIE IN BURNING HOME

IRONWOOD, Mich.—The small town of Hamilton, near here, will be gloomy Wednesday as the end of one of the most tragic stories on the iron range for several years will come to pass. A triple funeral—that of Mrs. Joseph Swidnack and her two children, Leo, five and Regina, eight—will take place at the village as a result of the burning of their home early Saturday morning.

Mrs. Swidnack after aiding other members of the family to escape the early morning blaze went back into the house and tried to rescue her son Leo. She was trapped in the burning building and died with the body of the boy clasped to her breast. Regina, who was carried from the house after being severely burned, died in the afternoon.

It is believed that the fire was caused from the heat of the stove, which exploded a kerosene lamp.

CLEMENCEAU MAKES HIS FIRST PUBLIC SPEECH TO U. S.

Extemporaneous Address to New York Audience at Metropolitan Opera

NEW YORK. Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time premier, will deliver his first address to the American people Tuesday night. He will talk extemporaneously although he has spent much of his time since arriving in the United States gathering material for use in the speech.

Clemenceau was exhausted Monday night when he retired after a strenuous day which began at 5 a. m. and ended shortly before 8 p. m. He leaned heavily on the rail as he climbed the stairway to his third floor apartment in the home of Charles Dana Gibson and he did not join the Gibsons' dinner but had a light meal sent to his room.

Arising early he seemed refreshed and eager for the coming of evening and the first of the messages he crossed the Atlantic ocean to give to America. Friends have warned him to speak no longer than an hour, but he has given no indication that he intends to follow this injunction. Yesterday it was planned that he should talk only fifteen minutes at the gathering of the New York editors and publishers. He talked for fifty-eight.

Speaking without notes, as he will, Clemenceau may talk for two hours if he finds an interested audience and is able to make himself understood in the great auditorium of the Metropolitan opera house.

Nothing else was planned for the Tiger Tuesday. He was expected to remain at the Gibson home resting and working on tonight's address.

MERGER OF MILWAUKEE AND U. P. ROADS IS PROPOSAL OF BYRAM

Objects to Government's Tentative Plan of Placing C. M. & St. P. With Great Northern

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Suggestion of an alliance of the Union Pacific with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was made Monday by H. B. Byram, president of the latter road, at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission on its tentative plan for consolidation of the railroads of the country into a limited number of systems.

President Byram said such a consolidation would do away with many difficulties which witnesses for the Great Northern had said would grow out of placing the St. Paul with the Great Northern, as provided by the tentative plan.

Points to Advantage
With the Union Pacific having no lines east of the Missouri river, and the St. Paul no lines west through Nebraska, Mr. Byram said a consolidation of the two systems would give the Union Pacific an outlet to the east and the St. Paul would benefit by the Union Pacific lines to the west.

Interest in the proposal was evinced by Commissioner Hall and Prof. Ripley of Harvard, who prepared a tentative consolidation plan.

"What would you do with the Chicago and Northwestern?" asked Prof. Ripley.

Admitting he was "in deep water" Mr. Byram said if the Hill system were separated the Chicago and Northwestern could with advantage be placed with either the Great Northern or the Northern Pacific. The Union Pacific and the St. Paul railroads, he said, have points of contact at Kansas City, Omaha, Butte, Spokane and Seattle, and use the same facilities in some of these places, in addition to owning jointly tracks in the Pacific northwest.

Objection Looked For

Mr. Byram declared he did not know how the Union Pacific would look on the proposal, indicating he expected it would not agree to it. The Union Pacific would probably prefer to remain in the advantageous position of receiving traffic from a number of roads rather than have an eastern connection. If the commission decided the Union Pacific should be connected with an eastern line, however, Mr. Byram said the St. Paul would be the logical road.

Mr. Byram said consolidation of the St. Paul with the Great Northern would prove advantageous to both lines and that if the St. Paul were put with the Northern Pacific there would be advantages to both roads.

RED CROSS DRIVE NOT YET FINISHED IN THIS DISTRICT

Incomplete Reports Show Good Results, But Not all Territories Canvassed

Returns are coming slowly from the annual roll call of the Red Cross in La Crosse county. Owing to a delay in the preliminary arrangements not all of the workers were out to canvass their territories on Monday, the opening day, but it is expected that before the week end, most of the city will have been visited by the committees. Such reports as have already been made have been good, with the most of the people who were asked to subscribe to memberships standing up.

Army Supports Drive
The war department is behind the Red Cross in its annual drive. In the absence of Secretary of War Wood, acting Secretary J. M. Wainwright, published to the army the following circular:

"The splendid work of the American Red Cross during the world war is known to all. Some do not know of the welfare work the American Red Cross does for the personnel of the army at the present time.
"Cooperation in welfare work for the sick and disabled, in hospitals, home service work, in the families of enlisted men, and assistance in solving the personal problems of the individual soldier, are important work in which the American Red Cross, by the nature of its organization, is especially fitted to render useful service. No government agency exists which is so well adapted to perform these functions.
"In connection with the sixth roll call of the American Red Cross, it is directed that the commanding officers of all stations and units give the personnel under their jurisdiction opportunity to join this organization."
The circular was ordered placed in all army posts.

DOUBLE TREAT IN STORE AT GARLAND LECTURE TOMORROW

Daughter Will Read After Famous Author Finishes His Talk

TRY L. C. COATES
Judging from the number of telephone inquiries from the activity of the two literary clubs vying with each other in canvassing the school, and from the seat sales at the Hubbard drug store, Mr. Garland is going to have a fine audience at the Normal school Wednesday evening.
An added attraction is to be offered us in the person of Mr. Garland's daughter, Miss Mary Isabel Garland. After Mr. Garland finishes his address on "Meetings With Famous Authors," she will read for fifteen or twenty minutes, selected from some of these authors and from her father's writings. Miss Garland has been graduated from a school of expression, has a charming personality, and, report says, will make a very fine lecturer. Her excellent interpretation of the authors, in the dramatic readings, we have a double treat in store for us Wednesday evening.

CHARLES RISTOW IS FINED FOR FAILING TO REGISTER AUTO

Charles Ristow was fined $15 and $5 costs in county court Tuesday morning on charges of operating an automobile without having registered it with the secretary of state, or with driving a car without license plates. The charges were brought by R. W. Tuxton, state automobile license inspector. The car that Ristow was driving without license plates collided with the car of Stanley Gordon parked in front of Gordon's home, at Levee and State streets, last week.

ROBERTSON CASE WILL BE HEARD HERE WEDNESDAY

Hugh Robertson, charged with robbery of a considerable amount of money from Ralph Raymond, pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned in county court Monday afternoon.
The case was set for 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Bail was set at $25,000.

SMALL GROUP OF FRIENDS ENJOY POST NUPTIAL

FOLLOWING the marriage of her daughter, Miss Grace Forbes to Archibald Forbes on Saturday night, Mrs. R. E. Forbes was a pleasing hostess on Monday afternoon to a few friends at her home, 504 Cass street, when friends dined informally. The decorations placed for the reception which followed the ceremony at the church, were still beautiful and featured the serving table. The bridal gifts, which were handsome, were enjoyed by the guests.

THE INVITATIONS to the "old time" dinner party to be given at the "Ye Stoddard Hotel" on Wednesday, November 22, were issued by Miss Dorset. Instead of Mrs. Dorset, and Miss Helen Dorset.

A PRETTY marriage ceremony took place at the residence of Rev. Bertram November 15, at Holmen, when Miss Edna Thompson became the bride of Leonard Severson. The bride was attended by Miss Edna Peterson, and Clifford Thompson, brother of the bride, was the best man. The bride wore a becoming gown of blue tulle and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid's gown was of champagne messaline with ribbon trimming and her bouquet was carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Severson left on a short honeymoon and on their return will make their home with Lewis Severson, brother of the bridegroom.

THE VICTORY SCHOOL Community club held its regular meeting at the school house, which was the closing session of the year. A successful year's work was reported, during which much that was needed for the school work had been donated. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. John Lusk; treasurer, Mrs. George Semke.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home
Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.
Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.
To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with homemade sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.
You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.
Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.
Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MOTHER! BREAK CHILD'S COLD

Hurry! Move Little Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Whenever else you give your child to relieve a bad cold, sore throat or constipation, be sure to first open the little one's bowels with "California Fig Syrup" to get rid of the poisons and waste which are causing the cold and congestion. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out.
Even if you call your family physi-can he will praise you for having given "California Fig Syrup" as the laxative because it never fails, never cramps or overacts, and even sick children love its pleasant taste.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

MRS. W. PERKINS, 524 Division street, entertained a small company of friends on Monday in honor of the seventieth birthday of her mother, Mrs. Lundgren. Lunch was served at four o'clock, the table being decorated with chrysanthemums in yellow, pink and white. The honor guest was showered with gifts and with hearty congratulations and best wishes for happy returns of the day. Others in the party were Mesdames Skold, W. Christanson, O. Larson, G. Gunderson and Johnson, Miss Elsie Christanson and Ernie Christanson.

THE DEGREE of Honor held its regular meeting Friday night at K. P. hall. The report of the delegate to the state convocation was read by Mrs. Rose Peters. Following the business session the ladies spent an hour having for the bazaar, which is to be held December 15. A delicious lunch of chicken sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee was served. A treat of a gallon of ice cream was sent by Mr. William Dell in honor of the birth of a grandchild. The evening was merrily passed in dancing.
The Carnation circle will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Mont Nelson, 122 Cass street, Friday, December 1.

THE MEMBERS of William McKinley Relief corps, No. 108, will hold their regular meeting at the lodge rooms in the court house on Wednesday. It is especially desirable that there be a good attendance.

THE MOTHERS' circle of the First Presbyterian church will hold its regular meeting at the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. The hostesses will be Mesdames C. C. Fletcher, A.

Many Children Vitamin-Starved

Vitamin B is a food element as essential to life and health as air and water. Yet many of the very foods you think most nourishing are sadly deficient in this vital substance; among them, cereals, land, butter, fine flour bread, rice, corn meal and many popular breakfast foods. Even milk is not rich enough in vitamin B. Many children suffer from vitamin starvation.
Their growth is stunted, they lose color, strength and vitality, and fall an easy prey to disease.

Now A Complete Food
"ZEP," a delicious new breakfast food—a toasted delight, ready to serve—supplies in itself not only the necessary vitamin B, but also food iron for the blood and food lime for the bones and muscles, and other food salts for the brain and nerves. Children love it. Give it to them with cream or milk twice a day and you'll see new roses in their cheeks.

"VAMPING ROSE" CHORUS

One of the most beautiful numbers of the American Legion Frivol Revue is the "Vamping Rose," sung by Joe Shields and Chorus.

IN THE MORNING PAPERS

A Summary of the News

LONDON.—Austin Brecken, journalist and dramatist, died.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The American Herford association holds the record of 1,300,000 Herford cattle in the United States. It was announced.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Requisition for Clifford Wilson, held at Kansas City and wanted in Wisconsin in connection with larceny committed at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., was honored by Governor Hyde.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—E. J. F. Hattatant, Duluth, former president of the Theodore Roosevelt Highway association, and the Minnesota Automobile association, died.

James W. Marshall, discover of gold in California January 21, 1848, was born October 8, 1810.

MILL EMPLOYEES MORE MEN

PHILLIPS, Wis.—The newly completed sawmill of the Knedland-McIntosh Lumber company here is to put on a second shift which will give employment to a large number of additional men. It is expected that the plant will begin running nights November 21. Two crews will be continuously employed throughout the winter.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome, and too dangerous to care the weight down. Eline's Description Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, contain no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Eline Plant, 641 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long periods of tireless exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

LEGION REVUE IS BIG ATTRACTION; PLAYS THIS WEEK

Annual Show to be Staged at La Crosse Theater Thursday and Friday

La Crosse has seen many home talent productions in recent years, but never before in the history of the city has a show attracted as much attention before its appearance as is being attracted by the American Legion's Frivol Revue, which is being staged on Thursday and Friday nights of this week at the La Crosse Theater under the direction of the Gerber Producing company of Chicago. Mr. Gerber, head of the company, is here in person to add the final touches to the show before its initial staging.

One of the most beautiful and elaborate numbers on the entire program, from the standpoint of costuming and stage setting, as well as from the standpoint of artistry and general excellence, is the "Vamping Rose" number. The song is sung by Joe Shields, and assisting him is a chorus of eight local beauties. The girls of the chorus are: Lorraine Olle, Florence Parsons, Mary Cornman, Mildred Miller, Eve Shoreman, Helen Cremer, Helen Cameron and Tulsa Shipman.

"Hot Lips" is a snappy singing and dancing number, offered by Charles Heyerdahl and chorus, consisting of Frances McKenzie, Leona Lee, "Bohdy" Olson, Stella Gihertson, Hazel Orwell, Helen Rusche and Ruth Stifter.

Evelyn Myhre, beautiful contralto from the normal school, whose vocal talents have already attracted much desirable notice in the city, will appear as soloist in the beautiful and picturesque number, "San." Assisting Miss Myhre will be Marian Burr, Dorothy Reed, Bernice Lea, Lillian Schultenber, Dorothea Kriese, Irene Bjerklin, and Ruby Elg.

In addition to these special numbers, the patrons of the La Crosse theater on Thursday and Friday nights will have an opportunity to see many of the old time home-town favorites in special and feature numbers, and there will also be many new stars brought to light. One of the special attractions will be the music furnished by the Callaway Harmony Boys, jazz bandits de luxe.

BIG BANQUET TO BE FEATURE OF OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

Perhaps the biggest event and the longest remembered by the delegates to the State Older Boys' conference to be held here Dec. 1, 2, and 3rd, will be the big banquet scheduled for Saturday night, December 2. Over 600 boys from cities and towns in all parts of the state will be served at this banquet. There will be pep and enthusiasm to spare when these 600 boys let loose with their school yells and songs, which are always a part of the program. A strong program of singing, special music, stunts and an inspiring speech by Reverend F. T. Carlwright of Ponce de Leon, and an address by Dr. W. A. Gamfield, president of Carroll college, has been planned. The banquet, committee with Frank Hickish as chairman and Mr. R. J. Coleman as advisor is preparing to make this big feature one that the boys in attendance at the conference will long remember.

Would you feed your child skimmed milk?

Not an ounce of skimmed milk in Eline's Chocolate. Skimmed milk isn't good enough. All the nourishing cream and butter fat is removed from skimmed milk (whether powdered or unpowdered). The farmers use skimmed milk to feed cattle and hogs.

We use nourishing whole cream milk—from cows that feed in the fertile, emerald green fields of Wisconsin—and drink crystal pure water from spring-fed lakes and babbling brooks. That's one reason why Eline's is so supremely nourishing.

Really good chocolate cannot be made unless the manufacturer is located in a good dairying district where he can get good milk and get it fresh each day.

The Eline Plant is in the heart of the greatest dairying district in the world, not second even to the fertile fields of Switzerland and Denmark.

We use the finest cocoa beans, the purest sugar, and then we take the time necessary to make Eline's right.

Eline's is marvelously smooth and deliciously good, yet — it costs no more than common chocolate.

MOVIES

RIVIERA TODAY

The great struggle for independence whether it be for country, for home or for business was never more fully presented than it was yesterday at the Riviera theater where "Cardigan" one of the season's greatest motion pictures was shown for the first time.

Little did we expect that we were going to see such an important, thrilling and historical motion picture with such an entertainment value. It was more than interesting. It was education and brought home to us how easy it is for us today in comparison to the hardships of those who fought for the independence of what is today the greatest country in the world.

"Cardigan" is from the historical romance by Robert Chambers, the well known author. It is a story of a most beautiful romance which threads its way into the background of the American Revolution. But the best of it is that it possesses the highest dramatic power and as a dramatic picture has not been equaled by any motion picture shown here this season.

"A TAILOR MADE MAN"—RIVOLI
"A Tailor Made Man," Charles Ray's first production for United Artists Corporation, comes to the Rivoli Theater on Wednesday heralded as one of the outstanding photoplays of the year.

Presenting the adroit and human Ray in a new environment, the story itself is said to represent the highest type of comedy drama yet presented on the screen. From all reports, Mr. Ray has outdone himself artistically, portraying the role of the dreamer, John Paul Hart, with a charm that is said to be with high unforgettability.

"A Tailor Made Man" was adapted to the screen from the stage play by Harry James Smith, by Albert Ray, Joseph De Grasse, who directed Charles Ray in "The Old Swinford Hole" and "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway," directed. The supporting cast includes Ethel Grandin, Thomas Ricketts, Douglas Gerrard, Victor Port, Kate Lester, Elvyn Chapman, Kate Lester, Jacqueline Logan, Stanton Heck, Frank Butler, Charlotte Pierce, and others.

LONG TRIP TO FILM
"JUNGLE ADVENTURES"
Into the heart of wildest Borneo lies the trail of adventure in Martin Johnson's "Jungle Adventures," at the Strand theater tonight.
"Jungle Adventures" is a singularly thrilling river "jaunt" into the jungle haunts of Malay pirates and strange lost tribes. It leads over five hundred miles up the Kinabatangan river from Sandakan, the British North Borneo port of oak and camphor wood, past the tiny British government port of Langa, where an "army" of twelve men is stationed, through dangerous rapids to the very heart of the jungle, where Johnson discovered and photographed an aboriginal tribe of cannibals, calling themselves the Tangaras. These curious savages still utilize as their weapon of warfare the blow gun with its deadly poisoned darts.

The river trail led past many a camp of genuine Malay pirates, who still infest the lonely South Pacific. One of the big thrills of the "Jungle Adventures" is a wild elephant hunt. "Jungle Adventures" will move to the Casino Wednesday.

for two days. It is called "Mr. Barnes of New York," with the ever-pleasing Tom Moore as Mr. Barnes, and the beautiful Naomi Childers as his leading woman. No one can blame Tom for his sentimental weakness in the picture, when Miss Childers calls it forth.

In the story, which is a photoplay version of the play of the same name, Mr. Barnes, an American world traveler, becomes involved in a Corsican blood feud. It seems that a beautiful girl has taken a vow to kill her brother's murderer. Circumstances point to the brother of Enid as the culprit.

WISCONSIN STUDIES WASHINGTON PLAN TO REGULATE MOTORBUS

Regulation of Motor Carriers
Subject for Legislation at Next Session

MADISON, Wis.—Motorbus regulation, a subject for legislative action at the coming session of the Wisconsin legislature, was considered at the national meeting of utility and railroad commissioners recently held at Detroit, according to D. E. Gettle, member of the Wisconsin commission.

He said that the state of Wisconsin was the only one which now effectively regulates this new and growing transportation system. Details of the Washington plan are to be sent to Wisconsin for study in formulating a bill to be introduced in the Wisconsin legislature.

Drastic action by the legislature to regulate bus traffic is expected by the railroad commission, due to the attitude of former members who have seen their roads cut up by heavy passenger carrying cars.

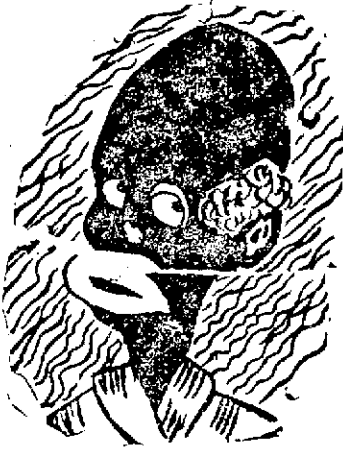

A bill placing motorbus control under the railroad commission was introduced by Assemblyman Perry in the last session of the legislature and passed, but was vetoed by Governor Blaine on the ground that it was fostered by the street railway interests.

JUNIOR COLLEGES NEEDED IN STATE SAYS FITZPATRICK

Plan Will Bring Higher Educational Advantages to Greater Number of Persons

SHEBOYGAN, Wis.—A plea for junior colleges to supplement the first two years of training at the University of Wisconsin, was made by Dr. E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board of education, in an address here Tuesday before the Schoolmasters' club.

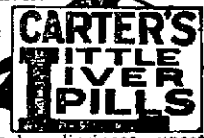

Dr. Fitzpatrick pointed out the need for junior colleges in the larger cities of the state in order to bring advantages for higher education to a larger number of persons in the state. He showed that the university is largely a local institution serving communities within a small radius of Madison.

"I hope that Wisconsin will take the leadership in this movement and organize a state plan for junior colleges which will embody both the elements of a sound system, local administration of the college and an intelligent oversight by state authority," Dr. Fitzpatrick said. "It will be a step in the interest of the intellectual and moral training of the young men and women of the state."
